Biography of Roy Hormuth

Roy Hormuth joined Ginnie Mae in 2012 and has more than 28 years of experience in housing finance and capital markets.

Roy is currently the Senior Policy Advisor in the Strategic Planning, Policy and Communications group at Ginnie Mae. There, he is responsible for the strategic direction of the Ginnie Mae owned portfolio of mortgage servicing rights (MSRs) and whole loans, as well as policy development efforts relating to liquidity and counterparty standards. Previously at Ginnie Mae, he served as the Director of the Single-Family Division in the Office of Issuer and Portfolio Management responsible all issuer portfolio management nationwide as well as transaction management.

Prior to joining Ginnie Mae, Roy was at Fannie Mae where he managed customer account teams responsible for top-tier national bank and investment bank relationships. He also led cross-functional teams, including risk management and loan servicing consultants responsible for managing the performance of several top-tier mortgage loan servicers. In addition, earlier in his career, Roy also managed a team in Capital Markets responsible for negotiating structured transactions and was instrumental in developing Fannie Mae's first Credit Risk Transfer transactions, including a Senior-Subordinate REMIC structure.

Mr. Hormuth earned a double major in Economics and International Relations, with a minor in Finance.
